OUR PROGRAM

Sirivik continued to host a wide array of programming throughout 2022. As covid restrictions continued to lift our program shifted towards a return to in-person support and skill building workshops.

Program Components

- Ulluriat
- Daily Drop-in and Big Pantry Days
- Healthy Lifestyle Program
- Growing Initiatives
- Emergency Food Support
- Cooking Workshops
- Special Community Events
- Community Meal Program

Key Challenges

Our primary challenge with programming remained stable water and sewage services. Limitations in water access forced the closure of our hydroponic greenhouse as well as our main facility on many occasions.

A YEAR OF NEW OPPORTUNITY

Governor General Visit

Sirivik had the honour to host a community feast at the Rec Centre where Her Excellency Mary Simon sat down with our director and board president to discuss food security and the work that Sirivik is doing to contribute to a stronger food system.

National Food Summit

The Sirivik team had the opportunity to travel to Toronto in September to attend the Community Food Centres Canada Summit which brought food organizations from across the country together to learn, share ideas, and take action towards achieving food security.

A BLOOMING PARTNERSHIP

Inukrock

In the summer of 2021 Sirivik launched the healthy lifestyle program. The program was lead by a group of youth who were looking to stay active and provide healthy activities for their peers in the summer months. One of the activities they chose to host was rock climbing. Rock climbing had a quick uptake and rapidly became a success.

The program has continued to grow and is now standing on its own two feet as the newly minted non-profit organization Inukrock. The passion of the young local climbers and the support of Sirivik has allowed this organization to quickly expand and offer impactful programming for Inukjuamiut.

Sirivik continues to work closely with Inukrock on programming that promotes healthy active lifestyles.

2023 VISION

2023 will mark the 5th anniversary of the opening of our facility. It is set to be another year of exciting growth for Sirivik. Having secured the necessary funding, Sirivik is now in the final phases of the design management process for a new facility, with ground breaking set to commence in the summer of 2023. This project has long been in the works and will allow our programs to better meet the needs of our community. Providing a space where Inukjuamiut can better grow, cook, and share together.

In addition to continuing our regular suite of programming, in 2023 our intention will be to begin offering supports to additional communities to address food insecurity on a wider scale. We understand that food insecurity is an issue that communities across Nunavik are faced with and we are ready to put our experience to work in strengthening the Nunavik food system.

We look forward to another action packed year of knowledge building, collaborating and good food!
